Ranne fearfully among the trembling reeds.
And hid his criſpe-head in the hollow bank,
Blood-ſtained with theſe valiant combatants.
Never did bare and rotten policy
Colour her working with ſuch deadly wounds,
Nor never could the noble Mortimer,
Receive ſo many, and all willingly:
Then let him not be ſlandered with revolt.

King. Thou doſt belie him, Percy, thou doſt belie him,
He never did encounter with Glendower,
I tell thee, he durſt as well have met the devill alone,
As Owen Glendower for an enemy.
Art thou not aſham'd? but ſirra, henceforth
Let me not hear you ſpeak of Mortimer,
Send me your priſoners with the ſpeedieſt means,
Or you ſhall hear in ſuch a kinde from me,
As will diſpleaſe you. My Lord Northumberland,
We licence your departure with your ſonne:
Send us your priſoners, or you will hear of it. Exit King.

Hot. And if the devill come and roar for them,
I will not ſend them: I will after ſtraight
And tell him ſo, for I will eaſe my heart,
Albeit I make a hazard of my head.

Nor. What? drunk with choler? ſtay and pauſe a while,
Here comes your Uncle.

Hot. Speak of Mortimer?
Zounds I will ſpeak of him, and let my ſoul
Want mercy, if I do not joyn with him:
Yea on his part, Ile empty all thoſe veins,
And ſhed my dear blood, drop by drop, i'th duſt,
But I will lift the down-trod Mortimer,
As high in'th ayre as this unthankfull King,
As this ingrate and cancred Bullingbrook.

Nor. Brother, the King hath made your nephew mad.

Wor. Who ſtrook this heat up after I was gone?

Hot. He will forſooth have all my priſoners,
And when I urg'd the ranſome once againe
Of my wives brother, then his cheek lookt pale,
